CENTRALS TOOK THE FIELD

The High School Cadets' Contest at the Ball Park.

Enlivening Scenes at the Opening of the Annual Drill for Military Hoaors-Fine Work of the First Battalion-Companies E, F, G, and H Will Drill This Afternoon.

The annual competitive company drill of the High School Cadets was commenced at the National Ball Park yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, and will be concluded this afternoon.

The scene presented was, mdeed, an inspiring one. The day was ideal and the mammoth grand stand was crowded The companies to drill yesterday were those of the Central High School, Companies A, B, C and D, which comprise the First Battation All of them did well, and re-ficeted much credit on their instructor, Major Burton R. Ross, and his assistant, Major Harry T. Domer. It is a difficult matter to judge from the grand stand of the relative merits of competing companies in a military drill, and especially so when the organizations are nearly on an equality in the matter of correct instruction, hours of practice, etc. It was thought by many of those that Companies A and D made the best showing for the first day, and that the companies of the Second Batallion will, as one of the young soldiers drilling to get the prize."

The judges for the contest yesterday were: Capt. Constantine Chase, Lieut. Gordon G. Heiner, and Lieut. Adrian S. Fleming, of the Fourth United States Artillery, U. S. A., now stationed at the Washington Barracks. Capt. Chase has, for year after year, been in these competitions, and it would seem that those in authority would as soon think of having a drill without arms, as having a program printed without mentioning there on his name as one of the mentors first company to appear on the field was Company B. under command of Capt Hausen. As required by the program, Capt. Hausen reported to Capt. Chase, had his company stack arms, marched them to the rear a few paces, and having prepared his company, by giving the command, "Front open files!" put the boys through the exer ches which are executed for the pur pose of giving the soldler a good set-up, and keeping his muscles in condition. These exercises were well executed as was also the manual of arms. Some of the firings which followed were somewhat ragged. but, as a whole, were fair. The foot move ments of the company were good, although the step at times was uncertain. Left front, into line, without halting, was well

Capt. A P. Tiskel then marched on the his company to the left, brought there to a balt, and saluted the judges with his company at an order. He saw his mistake and homediately brought his boys to a present and again reported. The exercises were well-executed and the manual had in it more snap and precision than shown by the preceding company. The first volley fire was good, but the second and fourth dragged somewhat, showing

After the fire, lying down and alignment of the company to the rear, the captain gave command, "right forward fours right," while the command should have been "fours right," the program calling for a formation by the flank to column of fours. In bringing rear four into line in double time, the men caught parching the intervals between men were closed and men crowded badly. In the platoon movements, the distances were not well kept and caused crowding. chiefs of platoons worked well together and as a whole the drill was a good one,

Capi. J. Bay then brought his Company A on the field, and from the reception pany A has a large following in the Central The manual of this company was good, the men were unusually well sized and set up; the double-time move were excellently executed and in good cadence, though the step was short In forming platoens to the left and halt, a number of men flinched and started to throw up the piece, the movement being from halt. The drill of C as a whole was excellent, the greatest fault being a tendency to crowd and a failure to keep proper intervals by the guides.

The magnificent new union depot at the erminus of the Washington and George town street railroad was opened for traffiyesterday morning at 5 o'clock. The building, which was erected by the Carital Traction Company, at a cost of nearly half a million dollars, is undoubtedly the finest structure in historic Georgetown, and the only edifice of its kind in the country.

The front, which is on M street, is ver handsome, the lower section being built of pink granite from Milford, Mass. The upper stories are built of Ohio mottle brown brick. while the mansard roof is covered with red circular tiles. A handsome towe rises from the front center to a height of 110 feet and is supported by foundation walls four feet thick. The lower windows are furnished with heavy ornamental iron bars, which add greatly to the appearance of the front, while the six gables project ing from the slanting roof give the upper portion a true Elizabethan tone.

On entering the building the main wait-ing hall is reached. This room is finished oiled oak and Nile green walls. The massive columns are covered with white plaster work, as is also the ceiling. The floor is of granata, as are also the floors in the two upper wafting rooms. On this story are the business offices, conductors' and gripmen's rooms, the receiving room A GREAT CROWD ATTENDED etc. The height of the rooms is in th neighborhood of sixteen feet, and the floors are supported by heavy columns, covered with Portland cement, there being ninety on

New York, May 27 - Commander Booth-Tucker issued a long statement hist evening in which he discussed the verdict of the jury finding him guilty of maintaining a disorderly house at the Salvation Army barracks in West Fourteenth street. In the latter part, the commander says:

"The verdict is an extraordinary one. In the light of future history it will be placed on a level with some of the strangest perversions of law ever witnessed. A new offense has been created by the action of the jury, which jeopardizes the religious liberties of tens of thousands of the mains to be seen whether the churches and evangelical organizations who are concerned in this decision will submit to the ancellation of their liberties, and whether those who are not so affected will stand by and allow our liberties to be curtailed by the bold depredations of those who should be the upholders of what are among the most precious rights and liberties of an American citizen, to say nothing of a Christian." He foresees that the indirect consequences of the verdict must be shared by every Salvation Army organization in the land over whose head any neighbor "may hold the whip and pose as the people."

The commander concludes his statemen by saying that" a new law has been manufactured by this conviction which is of a class character, prohibiting the workingman from meeting to pray, while the rich man is allowed to meet under precisely sim ilar circumstances to dance.

No one who visited the meeting at Salva tion Army beadquarters, First avenue and Twenty-second street, would have guessed that the commander had been found guilty but two hours before for maintaining a diorderly house. The meeting took place as scheduled, with a brass band concert out n front by way of preliminary. Inside the hall was jammed As Col.
